Why use us?

We have the best people

Our staff are highly trained professionals. They have what it takes to recover your money but without risking your all-important trading relationships.

We specialise

Unlike many agencies, we never undertake consumer collections. Believing that ours is a specialist task requiring specialist knowledge, we only collect late payments from businesses. This is where we focus our expertise, and where we have unrivalled experience.

We have unmatched resources

As members of Euler Hermes and Allianz we enjoy unlimited access to the very best available business intelligence. This means that, in the pursuit of what you are owed, we can often locate the key information, or even key individuals, that other collection agencies would simply be unable to trace.

We possess unique rating power

Businesses and institutions the world over use Euler Hermes credit ratings to gauge the strength or weakness of the customers they deal with. No organisation that wants to remain successful can afford to risk a poor Euler Hermes credit rating.

So, understandably, an approach from Euler Hermes' own collection agency is a particularly powerful incentive for late-paying customers to settle what they owe.

We have an unrivalled reputation and a proven track record

We didn't become the largest UK and international commercial collection agency by accident. We did it by getting results.

We're a recognised industry leader

We play an active part in both the UK and international trade associations for collection agencies. We're acknowledged for the high standards we set in terms of procedures and professionalism – standards that are now the benchmark for good practice within the industry.

We have unparalleled reach – in the UK and abroad.

We don't only provide a full collection service to clients of all sizes, and in all business sectors, in any region of the UK. Equally important, our unique global network means we also offer a specialist international collection service capable of operating in virtually any overseas market.

We offer a competitive price structure

Our pre-legal collection services are provided on a no collection, no commission basis and if legal action does become necessary in order to collect what you're owed, you can use our award winning specialist debt recovery lawyers at a discounted rate exclusive to Euler Hermes Collections clients.

Euler Hermes Collections is part of the Euler Hermes group of companies, the global market leader in credit insurance services and a part of the Allianz Group.

We provide a UK and international trade debt collection service in over 100 countries and have over 60 years experience in debt collection.

Our service is ISO 9001 accredited and we are approved members of the Credit Services Association (CSA), American Collectors Association (ACA) and the International Association.
